TOWN ASSESSORS OF ONEIDA CO. MEET

Supervisor of Assessments Gilligan Presents Principles to Guide Members in Work—Urges Uniformity.

The assessors of the towns of Oneida County and the city of Rhineland, met yesterday afternoon at the court house at the call of County Supervisor of Assessments, Wm. Gilligan. Mr. Gilligan brought before the members present some of the principles which should guide them in their work. He also dwelt upon the values of certain established goods so there will be a uniformity in assessments in the various parts of the county. Such meetings are necessarily of great benefit to the assessors in their work.

All of the towns but two were represented as follows: Cassian, Chas. Hermanson. Crescent, Henry Wiedeman, Rhineland.

Enterprise, Wynn Webster. Hazelhurst, Charles M. Ruimery. Lynne, Joe. Karanagh. Monico, John Carley. Newbold, Larry Nolan. Pelican, Alfred Scheldegger. Pine Lake, C. W. Swails. Plehl, Joseph Ritz. Schoepke, Henry Medkalski. Sugar Camp, Mike Grossman. Three Lakes, John Strall. Woodruff, E. M. Weaver. Woodboro, Louis Genett. City of Rhineland, F. Patterson. Not present, Sam Smith, Minocqua; H. E. Brown, Little Rice. Chas. Ruimery of Hazelhurst acted as Secretary of the Commission. Following is Mr. Gilligan's address to the Assessors of Oneida Co., Wis. Gentlemen:—

You are called in session by provisions of the state law, for conference and instruction as to the duties connected with the assessment property for taxation. It is presumed by the state that this meeting will be instructive, if not, your time and money are wasted. But like all meetings or sessions designed for a special purpose, the chairman is not the whole thing. Quite a few of last year's assessors were re-elected and I wish to have every one heard from. As the debate progresses, questions will arise. Don't be afraid to ask questions or express other views.

Our instructions from the state tax committee is to assess every parcel or piece of taxable property at one hundred cents on the dollar and when you do differently, you are violating your oath of office, but the opinion of values of taxable property in different localities should be respected.

Moulded men come here and buy land at from $2.50 to $4 per acre, then have it put in the deed to them at $4 to $10 per acre. There is much of this done in Northern Wisconsin. Not so in middle or southern Wisconsin; men buy land there to keep, or for their children. This hurts us as far as the state tax is concerned.

I hope you will all keep a uniform price or value on property. Keep it up to where it belongs. I hope we will discuss this matter of uniform value on like property, so that neither town nor individual will get hurt. After May 2nd I will try to go around with each of you and show what is being done and we will try to serve every one like.

Now I call your attention to the state law which says you must assess all property at its full value or we might get a call from the state tax commission and have our county reassessed, which would mean a great expense to the towns that were under assessed.

As to the findings of the state tax commission as to values of real estate in Northern Wisconsin, we are assessed too high, owing to speculator's prices for lands bought, and put on record in all our northern registers offices. As for instance, the state tax commission reassessed Waukegan Co. and Jefferson Co. In former, it was found all but two towns were properly assessed but those two towns had to pay for reassessment of the whole Co. In Jefferson, all towns were found to be assessed below true value and the whole county had to pay the cost; the state therefore raised the value of all prop-

HIGH SCHOOL AND GRADE BUILDING, BROADHEAD, WIS.

Erected 1907—cost $40,000—size on ground—120 ft. by 75 ft.—semi class style—gymnasium 75 ft. by 40 ft.—Manual training rooms and laboratories—Heated by indirect steam—two boilers.

Rhineland has a few of the finest public buildings of any city of its size in the state and still the High School which houses our young people is not adequate for one half the number attending school there.

Our Court House will do honor to any county in Wisconsin. Our Library is a thing of beauty, our City Hall is large enough for a city of ten times the size and still our High School building is so crowded with young people that lives and healths are menaced daily from impure air. Should we sit still and let this condition exist or should we get to work and relieve this over crowded condition and give the pupils who must soon leave school the facilities that children have in other towns of this size. If you doubt these statements ask the Superintendent or the teachers of the High School. The New North man knows too well that we should take steps to build at once and is going to get cuts of a few of the buildings recently constructed in other towns and let our citizens know what is being done elsewhere. We should erect a High School building at once as a convenience and a protection to the lives of the pupils of our High School.

erty in the county from 11,050,442 to 18,800,298, an increase of 53 per cent. In Racine Co. it was worse, the whole county having to pay the cost of reassessment. The state tax commission then raised the values as follows: horses—53 per cent; cattle—38 per cent; sheep—53 per cent; swine—53 per cent; wagons and farm machinery—92 per cent; merchant and mfg. stock—292 per cent. This shows that the latter are getting off easy all over the state. I hope none of you assessors will let anything of this kind happen. Thanking you for your presence and kind attention. I am yours truly,
W. H. GILLIGAN,
Supervisor of Assessments

SUNDAY SCHOOLS HOLD CONVENTION

Session Opens Wednesday with Addresses By Talented Speakers.

The Institute and Convention at the M. E. church under the auspices of the Rhineland City Sunday School Association is of unusual interest. Those giving addresses before the convention are experts in Sunday school work.

The Institute opened yesterday with addresses by Chas. D. Meigs of Indianapolis, Mrs. W. J. Semelroth of Milwaukee, and Rev. F. H. Brigham of Wausau. The importance of religious training for children, and the best methods to accomplish such training sums up the gist of yesterday's discussion. Great emphasis was placed on the fact that the time for religious training is the period of childhood.

As childhood and youth is the period for intellectual training of the individual, so also it is the period for the training of the religious faculties. That education to be symmetrical and complete must aim at an all round training of the man, physical, intellectual, and religious; and that the time for such three-fold development is in childhood and adolescence. That the ultimate aim of such training should be to produce a good citizen and a good neighbor in the community.

Mr. Meigs is a very interesting talker, he is not a minister but was formerly a business man, and during his early life spent several years as a commercial traveller. He has a vast fund of stories which he sandwiches in with his address, keeping his listeners alert and interested.

Mrs. Semelroth of Milwaukee always has her audience with her when she speaks, being an effective and inspiring speaker. Mr. Brigham, pastor of the M. E. church of Wausau has a remarkable way of getting very near the hearts of his listeners, and leaves a fine impression.

This afternoon Mrs. Semelroth gave a clean-cut, and scientific discussion on the topic "Character Building in the Primary and Junior Grades." From beginning to end her address was in accordance with the teachings of the most up-to-date pedagogy. It is prophetic of better results in the Sunday school that thoroughly scientific methods are being introduced. General Secretary of Rhineland in relation to Com. W. J. Semelroth spoke on "The Graded Sunday School." The afternoon session closed with an address by Mr. Meigs on the subject, "The Scholar's Heart and How to Open It." The spirit of this subject is characteristic of the speaker. He laid stress on the importance of winning the sympathies and friendship of people and especially of children, in order to gain a firm grip on them. The institute will be concluded by an evening session tonight when Mrs. Semelroth will give an address on the subject, "The Child's Need of The Church's Opportunity"; and Mr. Meigs will speak on "The Most Gigantic Combine in the World." The meeting begins at 7:30.

DEATHS.

The remains of John Trimner were brought from McNaughton on the Tuesday morning train, which was met by the Catholic Knights of this city, who escorted the body, to St. Mary's church where funeral services were held. Mr. Trimner was 30 years of age and had been a victim to tuberculosis for some time. In Nov. 1905, he was married to Miss Anna Wubker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wubker and lived on the south side. He was employed in the paper mill until the time of his failing health, when he and his family went to Reed City, where his relatives live; they had only been back two weeks previous to his death, which occurred Sunday. He leaves a wife and two small children.

The late John Trimner was a member of the K. of W. four years and his widow will receive two thousand dollars insurance.

Mrs. Anna Smith died of heart disease at her home on Keenan St., South Side, Sunday at the age of sixty-six. The funeral services were held at St. Mary's Catholic Church at nine-thirty Wednesday morning. She leaves a husband and six children, three sons and three daughters. One son, Henry Russell, and the three daughters, Mrs. Peter Brusoe, Mrs. Arthur Humon, and Mrs. Chas. Miller residing in this city.

OLD RESIDENTS MOVE AWAY

Last Thursday, after eleven years residence in this city, Mr. and Mrs. August Kriesel and their large family of unmarried children, moved to Cloquet, Minn. Mr. and Mrs. Kriesel became much attached to Rhineland and disliked to make the change, but Mr. Kriesel thought he saw better opportunities in the new location. One married daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bassett went with them. The eldest wishes go with the families in their new home.

Arvid Mode goes to Hot Springs, Ark., tonight for treatment.

COMPANY "L" GETS FLATTERING REPORT

General King Makes Inspection—Calls It "Best Yet"—Should Receive Support of Community.

General King inspected Company L Friday, April 22. There are forty infantry companies in the National Guard of Wisconsin, and Company L was one of the last to be inspected, and therefore the General had a good opportunity to make comparisons.

To say that he was pleased with the condition of the Company is putting it too mildly. He expressed his approval and satisfaction openly several times during the drill, and did not hesitate, when it ended, to say that it was the best yet for Company L.

In fact the Company made some records. Close packs was executed in the best time recorded yet with one exception. The packs when opened were models of neatness and uniformity, and not a tent pin was missing. Great credit is due to the new officers of Company L, especially Captain Walker, for the showing made, and the Captain wishes to acknowledge publicly his and Company L's obligations to the old members who rallied to his support and also to Sergeant Schoge, the regular, whose efficient aid was a great help to the Company, and much appreciated.

The editor would like to add a word here addressed to the citizens being introduced. General Secretary of Rhineland in relation to Company L's place in our community. This Company has now existed eleven years. The Armory was built largely through the generosity of our leading citizens, but what more have we done to encourage the Company, and help it to maintain its position in the National Guard.

All of this has been done by those directly responsible for its condition, and we little realize the expenditure of energy required to train and maintain an organization of this kind, and the labor is all performed for the good of the service, practically without pay, and at the sacrifice of some one's pleasure and business. Next to our regular army, in case of war, we must rely upon the Guard for National defense, and we are apt in peaceful times to forget the importance of having trained citizens soldiers.

We could learn a valuable lesson from some of the towns and cities of this state where the local companies are receiving the enthusiastic support of the citizens as a whole. Let's all resolve to lighten the burden of those who are carrying the moral, if not material support.

Company L is a credit to our city. As an advertisement it beats base ball, and it has the advantage of the National game from every point of view, and particularly in the motives that actuate the men that are pushing it along, and in the results of the work they are doing.

JUNIOR PROM

The class of 1911, have issued invitations for a dancing party, Friday evening, May 6, at the Armory in honor of the class of 1910. This is a time honored custom, not only for Rhineland High school but for most colleges and high schools. It is one of the bright spots for the graduating class. It ties the class which goes out into the world to the highest class remaining in the high school. In fact it is the social event of the year for the upper classmen of the school, and is always made a great delight for all who attend, and this year will surely be no exception.

SENDS MURDERER TO ASYLUM.

It is learned from the Cranston Republican that John Wilman, who killed a man with an axe in one of the R. Concor Company's camps last Christmas night near Laona, was committed to Northern Hospital for the Insane at Oshkosh, Friday morning.

Wilman is a Russian but speaks some English. The court allowed him an interpreter. The defendant said he had no recollection of the crime, that he had received a blow upon the head in the old country which had affected him etc., etc. Attorney Walsh defended him.

ACCOMMODATIONS FOR SUMMER STUDENTS

We are soon to have a summer normal in Rhinelander and the principal is now advertising for board and rooms. The ease with which these may be secured at moderate prices means much towards the success of a county training school and, we hope, later a State Normal School. One great drawback in the past has been the exceeding high price of board. Even the business college has been somewhat hampered by this obstacle. If the people care to have, this an educational center they should open their doors at a moderate rate to the students. Other towns do it and why not Rhinelander. Superior, where everything is equally expensive with this city is now offering students for the summer session of the normal, rooms and board in private families from $2.50 to $4.50 per week—and students may rent furnished rooms and form boarding clubs there and reduce expenses to $2.50 per week. Oshkosh still offers a lower rate.

The young people who attend these schools are most of them poor in purse and are trying to prepare themselves to teach in the country schools. They can not afford to pay a high price for board. Even if they could, they would not so long as the people of other towns in the state open their doors at a moderate price. We appeal to the people of this city to offer rooms and board at the lowest possible price. It will give us a good name and help a good cause along.

From all parts of the state come reports that agents of the stalwarts are interviewing candidates for the legislature and sounding them on their attitude toward La Follette. Many candidates, it is reported, have already been pledged to vote against La Follette regardless of the result in the primary. It is evident that someone is spending a lot of money in this gunshoe campaign and since the agents so far disclosed are or have been closely allied with the opposition to La Follette, it is safe to conclude that it comes from a fund provided for the purpose of defeating the popular will and filling the official positions with stand-patters who will readily bend to the will of the System.

It is apparent that the tactics of the campaign against Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland, Ohio, are to be repeated in this state. One report has it that the New York Street Railway syndicate, headed by O. H. P. Belmont, contributed $250,000 to the campaign to defeat Johnson because he advocated street car fares. As the reader knows, Johnson was defeated after one of the most contemptible campaigns ever conducted against any candidate. Every vile and villainous lie that human ingenuity could invent was circulated against Johnson. This stuff was printed in every language spoken by the people of different nationalities in Cleveland and circulated broadcast. Give no heed to rumors detrimental to progressive candidates; ascertain where they originated.

The following from the Chicago Tribune is a plain talk to the leaders of the republican party. Will they heed it or will they continue in their present course until they are routed horse and foot?

The world moves and party policies must change to meet the conditions. THE TRIBUNE rejoices in the defeat of such a man as Aldrich, although it loses the party one vote in the house of representatives. THE TRIBUNE rejoices that he was defeated by such a man as Havens seems to be although it adds one vote to the opposition. And THE TRIBUNE invites the prayerful attention of the leaders of the party throughout the nation to the speaking lessons of this election.

One of these lessons is this: The people do not approve the Aldrich-Payne tariff act. THE TRIBUNE poll of editors went a long way toward showing that. The elections in the Fourteenth Massachusetts and in the Thirty-second New York have driven it home. The war of insurgency that is washing Senator Hale high and dry on the shores of political desuetude—that war is spreading over the land.

The president is uncommonly ill advised if he does not recognize this, if he opposes it. And as for the stand-patters who remain in the high councils of the party, if they hold to their present purpose they will prove beyond any question that they are willing to sacrifice the party to their own personal willfulness or their own ulterior interests. They are prating about loyalty. Let us have a specimen of that virtue from them now. Their plan to send out an army of standpat propagandists to fight insurgency is inexcusable folly or deliberate party treason.

The party and the people at large demand a tariff revision that will not have to be explained with blue prints. They demand a downward revision serveable to the naked eye. They demand substantial relief from the exactions of high protections on the necessities. To say or to prove that the Aldrich-Payne law is not so bad as it is painted does not satisfy them. To explain that the best of a difficult situation was made does not mollify them. What they demand is results, that they can make out without the assistance of the higher mathematics. The machinery of obstruction, part Republican and part Democratic, the bipartisan bulwark of privilege, is breaking up rapidly. Aldrich and Hale depart. Cannonism lingers, but totters toward the door. The ostrichlike conservatism of obstruction gives way to the conservatism of Root, and militant progressives like Cummins, Beveridge, and La Follette extend and solidify their influence in congress and in the party councils.

ON THE RIGHT TRACK

If Mayor Seidel has the courage and the conviction—and we believe he has—to tackle the dance hall and concert saloon evil the decent people of this community will have cause to arise and call him blessed. To these institutions, the Free Press has called attention time without number as the most potent source of moral debauchery and ruin of young manhood and womanhood.

Here it is that the innocent working girl, whose nature craves for some form of social stimulus which her home and environment do not supply, is introduced into the first phases of that loose intercourse with the other sex which ends in the death of womanly modesty and virtue.—Milwaukee Free Press.

Even the Free Press feels compelled to recognize the splendid purpose and great courage of Mayor Seidel in his new office.

S. A. COOK'S CANDIDACY

As we said when Mr. Cook first announced his candidacy, he has now announced his platform and the main plank in it is the majesty of "Party". Mr. Cook is one of the old time order of politicians and not one of the new order of statesmen. The former composed a close corporation and devoted their efforts to perpetuating their own organization, which in fervid oratory they called the party, which usually was controlled and its actions dictated by the ring of politicians who dominated for the rights of the individual. By appeals to the protection of first, and only stands for the party, "the flag" and the "glory of America" when it is working for the advantage of industries they induced the of the individual.

average citizen, to permit his vote to be controlled as they desired. The independent voter or candidate who did not bow his neck in subjection to their yoke was always to be derided and abused and this practice they have come to look upon as unnecessary. From the first campaign for office of Senator La Follette he has had to fight the machine as he would not bow to them. Mr. Cook has always been one of the organization and his training has been in that line. He has been known as a good party man, or one who would do anything for the good of the party, without any consideration as to whether it was good for the public or not. Men of this type are not able to understand the new order of statesmen, of whom Theodore Roosevelt is a type, those men who say that the rights and welfare of the public should be considered and protected and that when the public is attended to the public will take care of the party. The old type of leader, would even cover up some wrongdoing in any department if there was danger of the scandal being injurious to the party. The new type of leaders believe that there is no danger to the party if the leaders of the party are honest and deal fairly with the public.

The new order of things is moving rapidly and it is plain that men like Aldrich and Hale are ready to step out because they do not feel at home in the Senate as they used to. The time is coming when party will count for much less and the public for much more and we believe that Mr. Cook would have received much more support if he could have honestly said that he was in favor of every measure that was for the uplift and improvement of every citizen, rich and poor and that as the poor had less chance of securing their rights he would do all in his power to protect them particularly.

The fight for the Republican nomination between Senator La Follette and S. A. Cook will be a fair fight between two exactly opposite temperaments. Mr. Cook stands for the rights of property and the party at all times while Senator La Follette

WEEKLY MAGAZINE
The Great Progressive Weekly

There are many reasons why you should read what it says 53 times each year. It is free to tell the truth it will oppose the encroachment of special privileges upon the people's rights. It will call the roll on public men and measures and inform you how your congressmen work and vote. It will criticize the executive branch of government from the highest to the lowest, if in its judgment the people's interests are not protected. It will spread the gospel of ideal home life through the Women's Department. It will be conservative when good things are to be conserved, and radical when bad things are to be exposed.

Ed. Bruette of Wells, Mich., was in the city last Saturday. He claims that the Isaac Stevenson saw mill will be completed about the first of June and that a pneumatic system of oiling will be installed. All the oiling will be done from the engine room. Small tubes run from the engine room to the oil holes in the machinery and the oil will be forced to the machinery by steam pressure.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

On Monday morning of this week, Mr. Harrison gave to the students a demonstration of wireless telegraphy, with a new apparatus, which has been recently added to the laboratory equipment. The demonstration was interesting and instructive; in some quarters of the room it furnished food for conversation and argument during the entire day.

The Junior Prom is now the main topic under discussion in High School. Invitations were sent out on Tuesday last, and all the committees are working hard.

On Wednesday morning an interesting debate was given in Ancient History. The subject was, Resolved That it would have been better for the world if Carthage had conquered Rome. The affirmative was upheld by Dorr Packard and Douglass Foster and the negative by Spencer Brown and Ruth Millard.

The regular fortnightly meetings of the Literary Societies were held on Friday last. Two debates were given; one on the desirability of annexing Canada, was decided for the affirmative, the other on the advantage of coeducation ended in favor of the negative.

Glenn LaPage, '12, withdrew from school at the close of the last week.

Donald Caldwell, '09, is absent because of illness, and a profound and solemn silence reigns in the Senior classes. It is unnecessary to say that he is greatly missed.

HAD LARGE MEETING

Almost the entire membership of Onelda Council No. 103 Modern Samaritans turned out on Tuesday evening April 26, at I. O. O. F. hall to meet the Imperial Scribe, W. A. Hicken and Deputy Imperial Good Samaritan W. B. Henderson of Duluth, Minn., and District Deputy L. J. Leisman of Merrill.

A rousing meeting was held and a talk was given on the plan of insurance by the Imperial Officers which was very much appreciated. The proceeds of the benefit dance given 3 or 4 weeks ago were duly turned over to Jay Russ who had the misfortune of losing his right hand some time ago.

Deputy Imperial Good Samaritan W. B. Henderson and District Deputy L. J. Leisman will return to the city in the very near future and strengthen the local council here.

'TONIO'S GENERAL

By GEORGE SIEBEL

(Copyright, by J. B. Lippincott Co.)

The police magistrate of an inland city—at one side a high desk, at the rear a grated door opening into a corridor of cells. Half-a-dozen policemen and several reporters in various indolent attitudes, too lazy even to fan themselves. Behind the desk a tall man with a military bearing and an empty sleeve. Such is the scene.

Officer Riley marched his prisoner up to the desk—an Italian, swarthy and sullen. In a country where taxes are levied for every window in a house, is it wonder that little sunshine falls on the people's faces?

The tall, military man fingered a letter as he looked sternly down at the prisoner.

"I got 'im, yer honor!" said Officer Riley.

"You fellows are a blame nuisance," said his honor, "and I'm going to make an example of you. You were grinding your organ along Sylvestra avenue."

The Italian laid his arm lovingly over the instrument suspended from his shoulder by straps and sustained by a sort of wooden stilt.

"I no blame nuisance," he said. "My name Antonio Pagliacci."

"Here's the complaint against you," said the military man, holding up the letter. "You shall hear it."

"Superintendent of Police—Dear Sir: I believe there is an ordinance forbidding organ-grinders the street, and I should like to know why the police do not enforce the law? For three mornings in succession an Italian has passed through Sylvestra avenue with an organ, and the nuisance is becoming intolerable. If the people are permitted to continue, why not confine them to the poorer quarters, where the racket will not grate on refined ears?"

"That's signed by one of the richest and best men in the town," said the magistrate.

A gloomy sort of defiance darkened the Italian's face. "I no care," he said. "Me go up front room, see general. He sit in big chair, his foot on other big chair, pillows hold him up, blankets round his leg."

"I like you play," he say. "I like hear 'Star Spangle Banner.' Make me think about Appomatto'."

"What's that?" demanded the man with the empty sleeve.

"Appomatto! Then general say, 'What de other tune?'—sad, slow, strong tune?"

"Bellisario, I say."

"Play him," he say.

"I play him—you know."

The Italian reached for the crank of his organ, and the strains of that magnificent march, into which Donizetti has put so much of frustrated ambition, of desolate glory, of solemn sorrow and sublime anguish, filled the police court—that march in which Donizetti rises almost to the sublimity of the funeral music in the "Götterdämmerung."

"I tell him about the opera I see in Milano—how old general win all world—many great fight, then king put his eyes out, and he have to beg in street—blind, starve."

"Yes," say general, "poor Bellisario, poor Bellisario! They do same thing yet—put eyes out, make beg in street."

"I no understand him."

"You play every day," he say—"every day till I dead. I die soon. You play every day 'Bellisario' an 'Star Spangle Banner.' That make me think of Appomatto'."

"What's that?" again demanded the tall, military-looking man, who was now listening intently.

"Appomatto! Little while later, maybe two week—I play every day—woman come down again."

"They take general away to-morrow," she say. "You no need come again. He go to country. He send you this, no have money." She give me medaglia, golden medaglia, with face of general on."

"Next morning they take him away in carriage. He look thin, hollow in face, his eye deep in. I see him—lots people see him. They call him 'Il gran general.' When carriage go away, I play 'Bellisario.' He look out an' look back at me. I cry, an' look at picture 'on medaglia'."

"Afterwards I hear he die. I never forget. I go away from New York, come here to play organ. Il gran general not think organ blame nuisance. Il general Bellisario!"

The Italian fumbled a medal suspended from his neck by a string. It was a thin piece of gold about the size of a half dollar. His other hand he plunged into a pocketful of coin, to pay his fine.

"Let's see the medal," the empty-sleeved man said.

The Italian handed it to him.

The old soldier saw on the token the lineaments of a face he had known well. He had watched that face at Donelson, at Shiloh, in the Wilderness, at Appomattox, in weary days before Richmond. He handed back the medal with tears in his eyes.

"Never mind," he cried as the Italian began counting out dimes upon the desk. "Never mind—fine is remitted. I'll settle the costs. You go back and play in Sylvestra avenue."

"Riley," said the empty-sleeved man, "if Von Highton kicks any more, you tell him this man has special permission to play wherever he pleases."

Officer Riley saluted in a sort of puzzled way.

"By whose order, shall I tell him?"

The man with the empty sleeve stood very erect. There was a tremor in his voice and a tear in his eye as he carried his hand to his cap.

"Tell him—tell him it is by order of Gen. Grant!"

"Good Roads."

Another need emphasized by the people everywhere is good roads. They want them faster than they are building them. Many favor some form of aid by the federal government. Some favor the direct building of long highways under the government's authority to construct postroads, others want help given to local governments on condition that local governments pay much of the cost and then keep them in order. Public opinion in general favors the national government going at least so far as to have a body of road-building engineers who shall give advice to any community that asks it—show just what sort of roads to build—and who shall work out large plans for long roads and thus cause adjacent localities to work together. Again, the government can show the people how.—World's Work.

When Chicago Got a-Going.

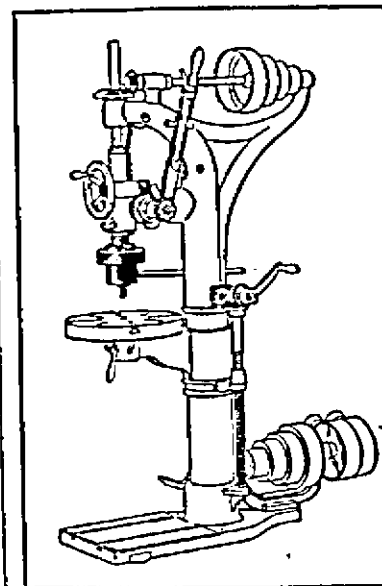

In 1833 Chicago went almost mad over the fact that lots on what is now La Salle street sold for $3,000, which had sold for only $50 but a year before. When Chicago's taxes totaled almost $400 in 1832 the town uttered a whoop of jubilation, and when in 1834 settlers began to arrive at the rate of 100 people in two weeks, bringing the total population up to 4,000 before 1837, Chicago's hopes went mildly mad. She took out a city charter, old Chicago, and the pace she has kept since that all the world knows.—Outing.

INDUSTRY AND MECHANICS

TO BORE SQUARE HOLES.

German Invention That Will Bore Holes Square—Said to Be Mechanical Wonder.

A three-cornered drill that bores square holes and that can be used on any lathe, drill press or milling machine is one of the latest improvements in mechanical tools. This tool will have a wide field of application in wood, stone and metal working materials. The time occupied by usual methods of cutting square or angular holes is so great as to bar their use except on expensive work, but when using the new drill a square hole can be bored nearly as rapidly as boring a round hole with a twist drill.

With a little change of the drill, triangular holes, and holes with five, six or more sides can be bored as desired. The device for doing this work consists of a special drill, three-cornered for making square holes, and a special chuck for holding this tool which is fixed on the ordinary lathe or drill press. This chuck contains three parts that move independently of one another. First, a part that screws on and revolves with the spindle of a lathe or drill; second, a stationary part which rides on the first part, and third, a holder into which the shank of the drill is screwed. This holder is caused to rotate with the first part, but is at liberty to move sideways a certain distance in any direction. The exact motion is determined by a guide in the second part of the chuck which surrounds the shank of the drill.

The shank of the drill is three-cornered, but not exactly triangular—that is, the three sides are convex, being formed by arcs of circles struck from centers at the opposite corners. The three-cornered shank just fits into the square guide and as the shank turns around in the guide which is held stationary the three corners of the shank in turn enter into each of the four corners of the guide. At the same time the three corners of the cutting head strike out the sides of the work. The cutting edges are on the end of the tool.

LEAD-WEIGHTED GLOVES.

German Inventor Who Has Provided Something for Golfers.

A German inventor has designed a glove for golfers, the fingers of which are provided with little lead weights at the base. These weights rest just over the third knuckles of the forefingers and thumb, and it is claimed that this additional weight on the hands gives an impelling force to golf clubs which cannot be gained by making them heavier.

GOOD SHOW WINDOW ILLUSION

A new idea in window displays which could doubtless be used as a novelty is described in the Merchants' Record and Show Window. The construction is very simple and the illustration will show the proper setting for the display. The platform is first constructed, which should be about 12 inches high. On this platform make a frame of light lumber, as shown in Fig.

1. Instead of the reflections of the sides. The appearance to him is that he can see all around the pedestal. The person demonstrating stands back of the mirrors and close up against the pedestal and bowl. Only the head and shoulders should be visible, which will appear to rest in the bowl.

The illustration, Fig. 3, shows a display made for millinery. In this case a young woman stood behind the

1. Over the two sides and back of this frame are draped goods of some solid dark color such as deep green. In the middle is placed a pedestal, which is cut out along its entire length as shown in Fig. 2. The top is made of a large wooden bowl having a section of the back cut out to admit the form of a young man, making it appear as if the bowl were filled.

The placing of the mirrors is shown in Fig. 1. They fit into the groove in the pedestal and extend diagonally back to the two rear corners. When the mirrors are properly fitted they will reflect the two sides of the booth. To the spectator in front it seems that he is looking at the back of the booth

HANGING RAILWAYS.

There is no range of mountains in the world more swarmed over by tourists than the Alps, and no country with as many different kinds of mountain railroads as Switzerland. To reach the highest pinnacles of the famous Alpine peaks is only possible to the small army of intrepid climbers who have their ranks more or less depleted each year by accidents and recruited again by new enthusasts, but the lower levels are possible to all tourists by means of such railroads as the one here illustrated.

It is an overhead cable road that crosses a ravine between the famous Matterhorn and another mountain. The passengers in the cars can look down to the dizzy depth of 5,500 feet, and although the ride would seem dangerous and uninviting to the uninitiated it is absolutely safe. Two cars are used, each of which carries 16 people, seats being provided for eight.

Female Feet Grow Bigger.

So do dainty hands, if we are to believe a German scientist who has been securing measurements. But beauty must not worry. After all, the very small foot or hand was not in accord with the tenets of the form perfect.

The larger foot and hand merely indicate that the girl of to-day is stronger, healthier and more nearly the ideal creature than the languorous, laxy girl of 15 years ago, who screamed at the sight of a mouse, fainted at a cut finger, and promptly became hysterical at the mention of stockings.

So go ahead, girls. Keep up your golf and tennis, rowing and tramping. Good health improves your complexion and temper, and we don't care a bit if your gloves and shoes do grow a size or two.—Chicago Journal.

Avoid Quarrels

Beginning of Strife Cause of All Disputes

By HELEN OLDFIELD.

CENTURY ago, in the era of elopements, when, because of her easy marriage laws, persecuted lovers regarded Scotland as the "promised land," an old dominie, who, from his point of vantage just across the border on a much traveled highway, tied many matrimonial knots, used to present the brides of his making with what he called "a card of counsel for conduct in married life," the first item on which was: "Avoid the beginning of quarrels."

No better advice could be given, then or now, to a newly wedded couple. King Solomon, with all his wisdom, never spake truer word than that "the beginning of strife is like the letting out of water; therefore leave off contention before it is meddled with." Most quarrels, conjugal or otherwise, begin with trifles, and lo! "Behold how great a fire a little matter kindleth!" Avoid disputes. "It is the first step which counts," for which sound reason, do not take it!

An old man, who, as a criminal lawyer of many years' standing, has wide and deep acquaintance with human nature, used to tell his daughters: "Make up your minds to the fact that your husbands are but men, although they are gentlemen, and take heed how you provoke them to anger. It takes two to make a quarrel; never be one of the two, and remember that your dignity best is preserved by silence when you are provoked. Never forget that you take your husband for better, for worse, and if, which heaven forbid, worse comes, at least bear it like a Christian gentleman. You will find the recipe in Matthew V., beginning at verse 39."

There is no bit of wisdom which prospective brides and grooms more profitably may take to heart than that while quarrels between lovers who are still a-courting may successfully be patched up as good, even better than new, provided always that neither of the lovers meant malice, and also that both are affectionate and forgiving of disposition, the genuine matrimonial family row rarely is followed by kisses, until there has been heart burning which scars, and acid bitterness of spirit which long endures under the sweet of reconciliation. A tempest of tears and temper not often is the forerunner of clear shining after rain. On the contrary, it by far is more likely to stir up lasting dissension and anger.

It is a well established fact in physiology that a severe wound, however thoroughly it may be healed, scarcely, if ever, fails to leave the adjacent nerves in a state of intense sensitiveness for life, unless the opposite result takes place and they suffer permanent paralysis. Something of a like nature frequently happens in the case of a serious quarrel between two people who should be all in all to each other, each in honor preferring the other.

There is no sweetness in lovers' quarrels which compensates for the sharpness of their sting; one might as well preach the advisability of breaking a bit of rare china in order to mend it with some wonderful cement which shall make it stronger than ever. In this world there are many risks which it is wiser not to incur, and true it is that:

"To be wroth with one we love

Doth work like madness in the brain."

How can it be possible that love of any sort can be made more precious by disputing, and wrangling, by contradiction and continual disagreeing? During the days of courtship it is possible that it may pass for playful teasing, when hearts are soft and heads even softer; but after marriage there is danger that each will be ready to assert his or her rights, and each be less willing to yield to the other.

Lovers' quarrels usually are either ebullitions of jealousy, mostly due to selfishness, or else they come from what somebody has called "the leakage of bad temper," a most undesirable quality for either husband or wife.

New Chance for the Birds

By ROY CRANDALL

High above the marshy wastes which border the Klamath lakes in southern Oregon a lone white heron winged his desolate flight a month ago, his beady telescopic eyes turned now right, now left, while from his needle pointed beak dismal and discordant cries sounded a requiem for the departed members of his kind, for he was alone in the world—the sole survivor of a once proud family.

On broad pinions the snowy survivor of a former legion floated to the east and then to the west; the far-seeing eyes searching vainly each stretch of lake, land or sedgy waste for a familiar patch of white which would betoken the presence of father, mother, mate, chick or friend, but he saw none, for President Roosevelt had been too late in setting aside the Klamath district as a national bird reserve and the delay had sealed the fate of the white heron family.

But one is left, according to the officials of the United States land office and of the National Association of Audubon Societies; just one white sample remaining of myriad thousands of one of the most beautiful of all native birds; the cruel decree of fashion having brought about so savage a butchery that biological historians will, in future works, record the melancholy fact that in the year A. D. 1903 the white heron followed the great auk over the dismal trail that stretches backwards to the ages that are gone.

If President Roosevelt had only signed that executive order one year ago—the heron would have been saved, but he signed it in September and that was a bit too late.

Goodness Is Emancipation

By PRESIDENT FAUNCE, of Brown University.

We have protested against Sabbath breaking, against popular recreations, against frivolity; but the strength of Christianity is never in what it prohibits, but in what it affirms. A prohibitory code may produce men of painstaking scrupulosity, but not men of power to summon and command. The greatest of all commandments is "Thou shalt." Goodness is emancipation and positive efficiency. Goodness is not keeping out of things. It is getting into things and transforming them. . . . Rules bind the soul to the past; ideals beckon on into the future. . . . A life of obedience to rules is repressed and static—the better the rules, the more effectually the life is repressed. A life of the incarnation of ideals is ever expanding and progressive.

SOO ABANDONS ABBOTSFORD

Railroad Division Point Will Be Transferred to Spencer

Abbotsford is to be abandoned as the division point for the main line of the Soo in the Ashland division, and all of the extensive railroad interests at that point will be transferred to Spencer, as the Soo has already started on a cut-off line running from Spencer to Owen, which will shorten the distance considerably between Chicago and Minneapolis. This will practically end Abbotsford's existence as a village, as practically all of the interests there are created by railroad work. According to an official statement by Pres. Pennington there are a great many changes that are now being made or soon will be undertaken in order to avoid heavy grades and shorten the main line. Mr. Pennington states that west bound trains will be run into Minneapolis before entering St. Paul, and vice versa. The new bridge over the St. Croix will cost approximately $600,000. It will be 2,600 feet in length and 180 feet above the normal water line; he also calls attention to the fact that work on the cut-off from New Richmond, Wis., to Withrow, Minn., over the above bridge, also on the Owen-Spencer cut-off has been started, and he also states that the right of way is being secured for the cut-off from Royceville to Cy-lon and from Stanley to Boyd. The New Richmond cut off will be seventeen miles in length. The new line will run through the village of Old Somerset, and the Somerset station will be discontinued.

THIEVES EMPTY CASH DRAWER

Nichols' Hardware was entered by thieves Saturday night and about eighteen dollars in money taken from the cash drawer. The burglary was committed some time after business hours Saturday night. The thief evidently had keys both to the store door and also to the money drawer. A number of checks lying around gave the first evidence that some one had been tampering with the safe. As yet, no clue has been given publicly.

'TIS ILL WIND BLOWS GOOD TO NO ONE

After six weeks of delightful summer weather, rain began to fall Friday which later turned to snow, about eight inches falling, accompanied by a raging wind, which continued until Monday. Due to the advanced season most of the vegetation was out and great fear that every thing would be destroyed, prevailed. Many farmers had sown their spring grains. It was estimated that loss in this state will be three million. Since the snow has disappeared and cold weather has continued, the damage in this county has been reported at much less than was at first stated. Unless much colder weather comes, vegetation may stand the shock and come out again. Reports say, however that much cold weather will follow.

Water was very low in the streams and mill owners consider the large amount of rain and snow as being a god send to manufacturing interests.

HUGHES APPOINTED ON SUPREME BENCH

Governor Charles E. Hughes of New York leaves political life and a great future in law to become a member of the supreme bench of the United States. Last Monday, President Taft received notice by letter of this acceptance and was delighted to secure so competent a man to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Brewer. The New York papers pay the highest compliment to Governor Hughes as a capable, upright man who has been bold to expose and punish crime. It was he who revealed the insurance scandals a few years ago, and this splendid service made him available as governor of New York. Since he became governor, he has been untiring in prosecuting the petty grafters at Albany, N. Y. He has shown the machine politician little respect and appealed directly to the people.

While the people all over the nation are lauding the new judge, the machine politicians of New York will rejoice in his departure from that state.

Many think he goes on the bench unbiassed toward big business; others feel his tendency has been to favor the big corporations. He vetoed the two cent fare bill passed by the New York legislature; he opposed granting a charter to a new railroad parallel to the New York Central and has recently opposed and succeeded in getting the New York legislature to oppose by a small majority of two votes the income tax.

The supreme court judges are pleased with the appointment. Mr. Bryan classes him as a weak reformer and a man who by instinct is friendly to the corporations. He declares that the trust magnates have contributed freely to the governor's campaign funds and recalls his hostility to the income tax amendment. Mr. Bryan also makes the objection that Governor Hughes is understood to be a close friend of John D. Rockefeller.

SPORTSMEN ORGANIZE CLUB

A party of Fond du Lac sportsmen have organized under the name of the Blue Lake Hunting and Fishing Club. The club has purchased a tract of fourteen acres of land from C. J. Scribner on the shores of Blue Lake, this county, and will commence at once to erect thereon bungalows which will be open to the members at any time during the summer season.

The membership of the club is limited to twenty-five and consists of some of the leading business men of Fond du Lac. Blue Lake is located about 6 miles from Minocqua and is regarded as one of the prettiest bodies of water in the state. It is two miles in length, two miles in width and about one hundred feet in depth.

Man that is born of woman is of a few days and many grows. When the spring comes and the rain waters the earth he complaineth because of the mud a few weeks later and his soul is grieved because of the exceeding muchness of the dust. In the winter he cryeth it is too cold, and in the summer he would fain join an Arctic expedition that he may escape from the summer heat. When the sun shineth brightly it hurteth his eyes and when it hideth behind a cloud it giveth him the blues. When the wind bloweth he curseth cyclone, and when it stoppeth joy departeth from him and he moaneth, O, give us a breeze. Yes, verily there is nothing which satisfieth man. He cometh into this world crying, and he leaveth it grumbling. And this, too, is vanity.

ARBOR DAY ANNUALS

Wisconsin Arbor and Bird Day Annuals for 1910 have been distributed by Supt. F. A. Lowell to the various teachers of the county schools. It is a neat little pamphlet and contains a selection of appropriate articles in prose and verse for Arbor Day programs. There are several full page illustrations of Wisconsin birds in natural colors.

Stephen H. Alban, for many years land commissioner and later practiced law in this city, was reappointed postmaster of Rhinelander for a second term by President Taft last Friday. The appointment went to the senate Saturday but was held up by Senator La Follette at the request of Congressman Morse. Mr. Alban's friends feel that there will be but a brief delay before confirmation takes place.
